Technical drawings supplied in electronic format

One step for sustainability

With more than 3000 printed publications per year, BEG has decided to reduce its carbon footprint by delivering the technical documentation, drawings and instruction manuals, included with each project as electronic format.

One set of printed instruction manuals is still supplied with each equipment order, to ensure every one on site can access the instructions concerning the safety recommendations.

Equipment drawings and instruction manuals are available respectively as tiff files and PDF files, delivered on a USB memory drive, to facilitate the distribution of the technical documentation.
